? Information

If you've learned you have cancer, you need information – fast. What if there was one person who could help you find the answers and information you need for your cancer journey?

The good news is, there is. An American Cancer Society patient navigator can provide reliable information to help you make informed decisions and understand your options.

Your American Cancer Society patient navigator can:

- Help you find information on your specific type of cancer
- Help you find the right questions to ask your doctor
- Help connect you to the American Cancer Society through 1-800-227-2345 or www.cancer.org

Through this free, confidential program, available in hospitals and treatment centers, the American Cancer Society can help you manage your day-to-day concerns and stay on track with your treatments and follow-up care.

Your American Cancer Society patient navigator can:

- Help you connect to resources for transportation, lodging, and local assistance
- Help you find answers to your questions about financial and insurance needs

We offer emotional support for you and your loved ones by referring you to support groups, classes, and other resources. Your American Cancer Society patient navigator can also help by listening in your time of need.

Your American Cancer Society patient navigator can:

- Help you find local support groups
- Provide emotional support and information to your loved ones
- Be there for you in your time of need
