Course Readings for

TEACHING WITH SIMULATION
AN INSTRUCTOR COURSE CERTIFICATE PROGRAM

STRONGLY SUGGESTED FOR DAY 1:

SUPPLEMENTAL READING FOR DAY 1:

STRONGLY SUGGESTED FOR DAY 2:

SUPPLEMENTAL READING FOR DAY 2:

30. Clapper, T. C., & Ng, G. M. (2012, in press). Why your TeamSTEPPS program may not be working. Clinical Simulation in Nursing. doi:10.1016/j.ecns.2012.03.007

STRONGLY SUGGESTED FOR DAY 3:

33. Kneebone R. Crossing the Line: Simulation and Boundary Areas. Simulation in Healthcare 2006; 1:160-163. PMID: 19088585

SUPPLEMENTAL READING FOR DAY 3:

38. Glavin RJ. Skills, Training, and Education. Simulation in Healthcare 2011;6:4-7. PMID:21330844

STRONGLY SUGGESTED FOR DAY 4:

SUPPLEMENTAL READING FOR DAY 4:

STRONGLY SUGGESTED FOR DAY 5:

SUPPLEMENTAL READING FOR DAY 5:

68. Gaba DM. Where Do We Come From? What Are We? Where Are We Going? Simulation in Healthcare 2011; 6(4):195-196. PMID: 21817865

71. Ziv A, Wolpe PR, Small SD, and Glick S. Simulation-Based Medical Education: An Ethical Imperative 2006; Simulation in Healthcare; 1: 252-256. PMID:19088599

78. Groome JA. Creating New Solutions to the Simulation Puzzle. Simulation in Healthcare 2009; 4(3):131-4. PMID:19680078

79. Gaba DM. Out of This Nettle, Danger, We Pluck This Flower, Safety: Healthcare vs. Aviation and Other High-Hazard Industries. Simulation in Healthcare 2007; 2(4):213-217. PMID:19088624

PMID’s are provided for easy linking from PubMed. Access the articles on the reading list through the Library’s gateway to PubMed. Penn State Hershey staff/students can go through the Library website at http://med.psu.edu/web/library/home or go directly to http://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov.medjournal.hmc.psu.edu:2048/pubmed?otool=psulib. You will need your Penn State Hershey ePass and/or Penn State Access when off campus.

Other participants should go through their own Library’s pathway to Pubmed for access to full text links. If your library does not subscribe to a particular journal, you may use the Harrell Library visitor pass when you come for your course. Our license covers the use of resources by on-site visitors, and you may print or download these articles for your personal use (copyright laws apply). Library staff can assist as needed. The library is located directly below the Simulation Center on the first floor.